

On 2 Jobs For Wasatch

Special to The Tribune
HEBER CITY — Contracts for two major Wasatch County facilities will be awarded soon, Wasatch County commissioners have announced. Bids have been opened for construction of the Wasatch County Courthouse and a new county hospital totaling approximately $935,300.

The Richard Miller Construction Co. of American Fork was low bidder on the courthouse with a bid of $299,872.

Hospital Low Bid

Iverson Construction Co. of Salt Lake was low bidder for construction of a new hospital with a bid of $635,300.

Contracts on the courthouses are expected to be awarded within the next 10 days, pending a meeting with the Utah State Civil Defense Agency for providing adequate fallout protection in the new building.

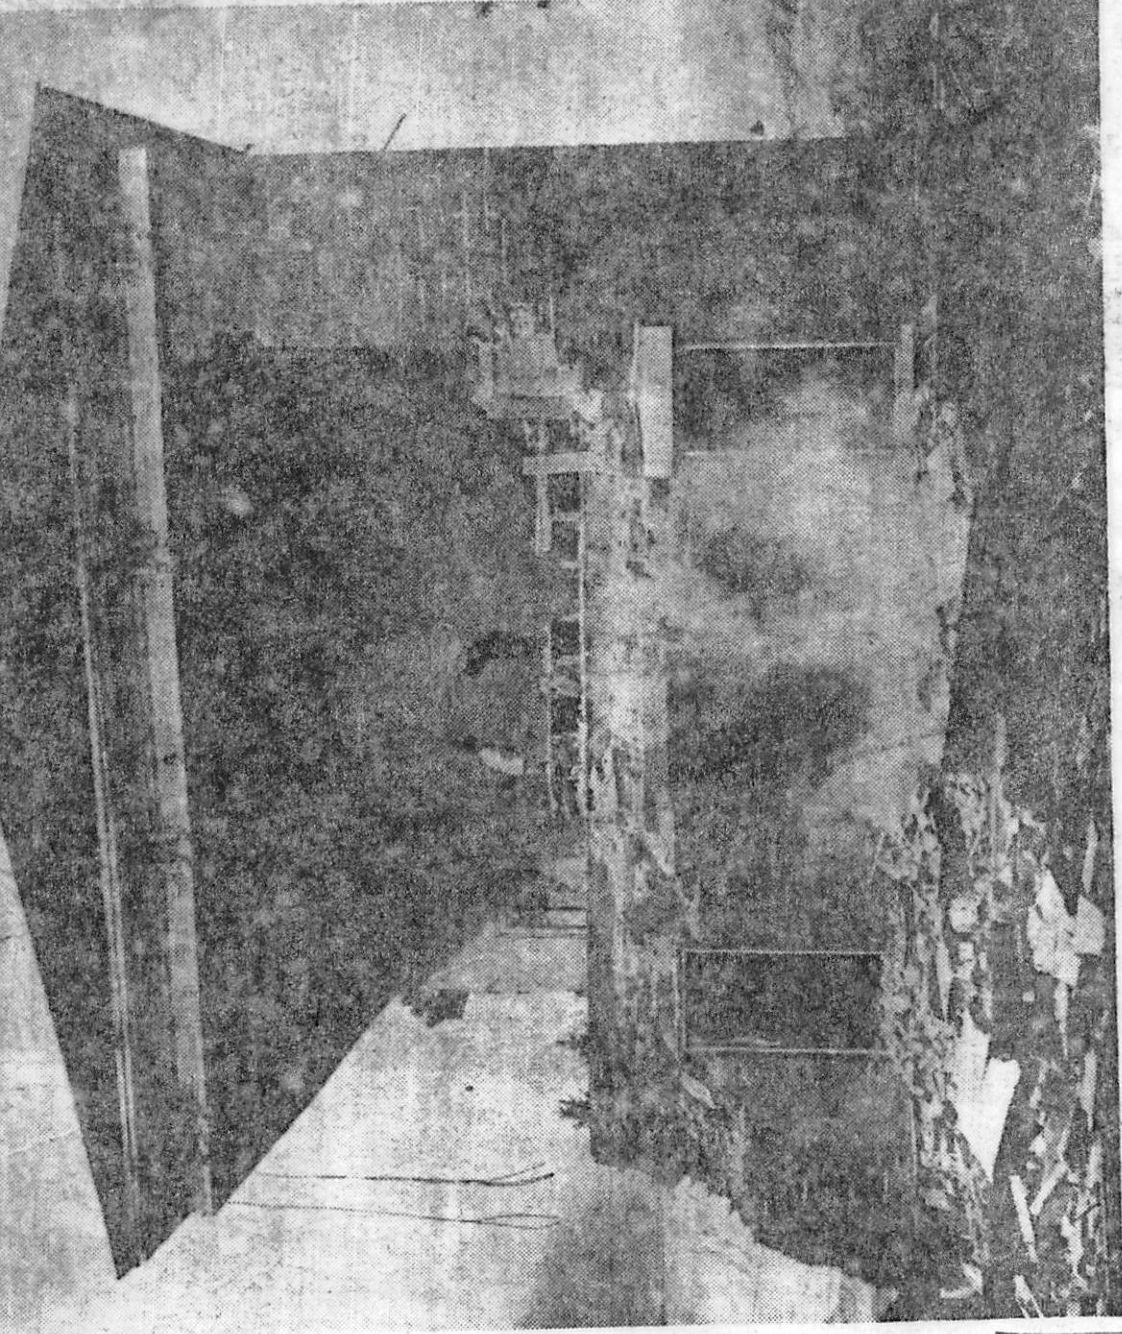

The hospital contract first must be approved by the federal government due to the providing approximately 10 per cent of costs from funds under the Hill-Burton Act, before actual awarding of the contract can be made.

Building Removed

The old county courthouse is being removed so the new building can be constructed on the present site on Heber City's Main St.

The lot is expected to be cleared and ready for construction by next Wednesday according to Elmo Jacobsen, chairman of the county commission.

The old jail will remain intact until the new building is completed.

Demolition of ancient Wasatch County Courthouse is complete, work is expected to begin on a new structure which will cost nearly $300,000. is rapidly nearing completion. As soon as the raz-
